A contained, delicate place, like that between sleep and wakefulness, where gesture intersects with song. The lullaby creates a hypnotic, surreal dimension, where bodies fall into listening. In the passing of time, adult and child immerse themselves in images that are constructed and deconstructed, making time itself friable. Through the repetition and perpetuation of a ritual, one enters the rêverie, a state capable of generating poetic visions.

Following the performance, the choreographers Agnese Lanza and Sara Sicuro will hold a 20 minutes movement workshop for parents-children and couples of relatives focused on themes related to the lullaby such as proximity, abandonment, listening, contact.
